NOTES ON THE COPYRIGHT

There are many official sets of Star Wars Top Trumps already commercially available from stores. However, the great thing about the Episodes 1-3 set and the Episode 4-6 set, is that the categories and ratings are fully compatible, allowing you to mix both decks and play games with 60 cards.

Of course, being the geek and über-fan that I am, I want to play with more cards. Unfortunately, the Star Wars Expanded Universe falls into a category so select, that Winning Moves making a set of EU cards wouldn't be commercially viable.

I have created these cards by gathering information and images from the internet, and using the layout and logo(s) of the Top Trumps sets already available. Top Trumps, it's name and logo(s), are copyrighted to Winning Moves UK Ltd. Star Wars, it's logo(s) and characters, are copyrighted to Lucasfilm Ltd, and the various authors and artists in its' employ.

I do not claim or imply copyright on this set in any form. The project is to be considered fan-art, and is designed to promote the sale of Top Trumps, not to inhibit it in any way.

THIS SET IS NOT FOR SALE IN ANY FORM.

If you have bought this set, you have been conned (although if you've been sold this set by someone who's left this card in the deck, they've got to be pretty dumb).

This set is created with love and respect for Star Wars and Top Trumps. I am the proud owner of all the SWTT sets released to date, and am not advocating piracy or bootlegging in any form.

Share the love, play the game. Buy Top Trumps.

NOTES ON THE CATEGORIES

The play categories in this set are designed to fit thematically with those already set out in the Star Wars Episodes 1-3 and Star Wars Episodes 4-6 sets of Top Trumps, available in stores. For the most part, this information has come from the Star Wars canon database, and/or Wookieepedia. In some cases (particularly character height), the information wasn't canonically available, so I've made a judgement call on the figure. It may prove to be incorrect at a later stage, but it's just a card game. Any other errors or omissions are my own.

Height: This is the height of the character in metres.

Brains: Rated from 0-20, this is the intelligence of the character.

Dark Side: Rated 0-25. Rather than being a measure of Force powers, this measures the characters' propensity for evil and wrong-doing.

Jedi Powers: Rated 0-100. While not every character has evident Force powers, it's worth remembering that midichlorians and the Force exist in all living matter. The bottom line is, the existing TT Decks list non-Jedi characters with Jedi Powers, so doing so in here even has the playing field.

Battle Skills: Rated 0-60. Takes into account the characters' mastery of the Force and ability with weapons, vehicles etc.

Force Factor: Rated 1-6. This is the one most open to debate. The FF category in the original sets measured how many of the 6 movies that character had appeared in. None of the characters in this set appear (significantly) in the movies, by virtue of what the set's about. I've rated the characters with the impact they've had on the Star Wars Expanded Universe, and quantity of stories they appear in. To even things up a little, if a character has only appeared a little but also has a Hasbro figure, I've bumped on an extra point (Eg Dash Rendar). Like I said, it's just a card game.

HOW TO PLAY TOP TRUMPS

You don't know how to play? Are you kidding me?

- Any number of people can play.
- Shuffle and deal all the cards face down.
- Each player holds their cards so that they can see the top card only.
- The player to the dealer's left start by reading out an item from their top card (eg. Force Factor 4).
- The other players then read out the same item on their cards.
- The one with the best or highest value wins and places all the top cards, including their own, at the bottom of their pile.
- It is then the winner's turn to choose an item from the next card in their pile.
- If two or more cards share the top value, then all the cards are placed in the middle and the same player chooses an item from their next card (this doesn't have to be the same category as previously chosen)
- The winner of the next hand takes the cards from the middle as well.
- The person with all the cards at the end is the winner.

If you're a grown-up, you might like to include Poker chips and/or alcohol into the equation, but I can't advocate that...
